

News Release December 2015 AirForce Texan is NRA Gun of the Week

AirForce Airguns' Texan Named NRA Gun of the Week.

(Fort Worth, TX) AirForce Airguns' Texan Air Rifle – the world's most powerful production air rifle – has been awarded the honor of being the National Rifle Association's Gun of the Week. This marks the first time AirForce has been named Gun of the Week and the first time anyone can remember NRA picking an air rifle.

"This was quite a pleasant surprise and a serious honor," commented AirForce CEO and Founder John McCaslin. "I have been a member of NRA and a reader of American Rifleman for most of my life and I cannot recall the last time an air rifle was Gun of the Week. We want to thank everyone at NRA and the staff at American Rifleman for this. It is probably the best Christmas present we could have hoped for."

The AirForce Texan set a new high bar for pre-charged pneumatic air rifles when introduced at the 2015 SHOT Show with energy levels of 500 foot pounds and the ability to take down a whitetail with a single shot from its .457 barrel. The Texan has elevated the art of airgun hunting to large game and rivals most hunting rifles in accuracy and many in power.

"Everyone here at AirForce has a serious sense of pride over this mention by NRA," remarked McCaslin. "We are regular hunters, shooters and NRA members. We could not be prouder or happier than when we received word that our Texan was going to the Gun of the Week."

Since the introduction of the Texan, AirForce has received a steady stream of successful hunt photos from Texan owners all over the US. The most common comment is "Wow!"
